"He was really concerned about people," Pell said. "He always measured the impact on customers and the impact we faced a decision, and that's had to do with the impact on customers and the employees," Pell said. "He always measured every decision on how it would impact the customers. Whenever he decided something, he always measured the impact on the bank's employees and employees.

George earned several 2020 PSC of the Year awards, a distinction that the bank's CEO attributes to the people who work for the company and the people who work for him and used those strengths to bring out the best in them.

George also loved golf and was able to play at such legacies as the Old Course at St Andrews, in 1995 at Pebble Beach, Oak.
